State Emergency Declarations: Telehealth and Licensure Flexibilities During COVID-19 and Current State of Emergency Waivers

As of November 30, 2021:

- 28 states and D.C. have ended their emergency declarations.
- 22 states continue to have emergency declarations in place.
 - States with declarations in place include: AZ, CA, CT, DE, HI, ID, IL, IN, IA, KY, LA, MS, MO, NC, NV, NM, RI, TX, UT, WA, WV, WY.
 - Of these 22 states, 19 states still have licensure flexibilities in place. Licensure flexibilities have expired in CT, MS, and NM despite emergency declarations still in place.
 - Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware and New York issued new state emergency declarations that include state licensure flexibilities.
- Other state licensure-related updates:
 - AZ and FL allow out-of-state providers to register with the state to practice telemedicine in the state, per state law.
 - CT passed a bill that will allow out-of-state providers to provide telehealth services to patients in CT through June 30, 2023. This bill authorizes the Commissioner of Public Health to issue an order allowing an out of state licensed physician or PA to provide services via telehealth without obtaining a CT license through this date, however no order is currently in place.
 - VT pandemic-related waivers, including allowing health care professionals licensed in other jurisdiction to practice in the state as a volunteer member of the Medical Reserve Corps or part of a staff of a licensed facility/FQHC, will be extended through March 31, 2022 per SB 117. The state’s emergency declaration was lifted on June 15, 2021.
 - WV passed a bill to allow health care practitioners licensed and in good standing in another jurisdiction to pay a fee to become registered with the appropriate medical board and become an interstate telehealth practitioner in the state.
